A distinguishing feature of the meeting was the presence of a large number of prominent cities, who have not participated actively in public movements, but who, in the present exigency schibit no less solicitude for the National welfare than those who have been more conspicuous in patriotic efforts. Many influential Democrata were also in attendance. The President of the Convention, Hon Thos. C. The home vote has done much to strengther The home vote has done much to strengthen weak-backed and tituld Unionists. A candidate never ran for office under more unfavorable auspices than Judge Dixon. He was simply as independent estudiate, prematurely brought out, in a unamer that many objected to, by a few lawyers, and afterwards endorsed by the Union members of the Legislature, but not nominated by any party, and so holding no one to his support by party festly. Them he was warmly endorsed by E. G. Ryan, who is popularly regusted as the incarnation of Copperhead Democracy, in a Democratic Convention, where he barely failed of getting the nomination, though the Convention manifested a plasmy dissional spirit. And farther, his decision against the power of the President to suspend the writ of holess corpus and deciare martial law in 10ral States, was most unpastable to Union men, and agree plannible excuse for wide misrepresentation of his position as a loyal man, and the opposition of very cold able to Union men, and gave planable excuse for wide misrepresentation of his position as a toyal man, and the opposition or very cold support of several Republican papers. Besides all this, the Farm Mortgagers were leagued against him in a body, and so changed the votes of men from their instural affinition as to lose votes for Dixon to the extent of 800 in Rock, the same in Dodge, and hundreds in other farm mortgage counties. Notwithstanding these disadvantages, he has gained between two and three thousand on the Union vote of last Fall, and demonstrated that with a good ticket and an active caurase, the Copperhead Democracy can be businessed, which is the first mortgages, by their course in going hoddly for such a man as Cothren, have alterated a large amount of sympathy herecofore felt for them, and committed political suicide. the poor of Ireland.

—A Suffolk correspondent of the Hartford Press, gives the following version of the unfortunate affair at that place, which resulted in the death of Col. Kimball, at the hands of Gen. Corcoran: in the death of Col. Kimball, at the hands of Gen. Corcoran:

"In my relation of the Corcoran and Kimball affair I committed the error of sying that Lieutenant-Colonel Kimball was on picket duty at the time of his death. I have learned since that he was at Gen. Getty's beadquarters at the time of the nafortansie occurrence; that he halted (of course within occurrence) and that he attempted to pass. The General, whose business was argent, and seeing no alternative, drew his revolver and short Kimball dead. Such, I believe, to be a true version of the affair.

—Liout. W. L. Wheston, of Providence, R. I., son of Dr. Wheston, and an aid to Gen. Palmer, went to the mouth of Pamilico river, in asteamor, and then taking a small bost, passed the rebel batteries, delivered dispatches to Gen. Foster, and then returned to the steamor uninjured. Such an act of personal bravery is worthy of record.

—Gen. Wadsworth called on the veteran Scott, as chairman of the committee of arrangements for the loyal longue meeting, held in New York, on Monday evenleg, to request him to preside. The veteran replied that be had thought he should not again present himself before a popular audience, but in the present condition of public affairs he would consent cheorfully to "the faffairs he would consent cheorfully to "the faffairs he would consent cheorfully to "the pathes boys take one battery more."

—Zacehens Bestty, Esq., editor and propristor of the Knoxville Republicas, was elected Mayor of that city on Tuesday of last week.

At the Copperhead Convention on Saturiay, it was stated by a renegade Norwegian, Martin Polson, the Copperhead momines for Felice Clerk, that four hundred Norwegians were on the register who would vote the Copperhead ticket. The felice was hypothecating upon a very uncertain basis, however, as the segical proves. An immense Norwegian meeting was held on Saturday might, in the North Division, at which this Poison attempted to speak, but was howled down by the sadience, who cried "Down with the Copperhead" until he was forced to stop. Hom. J. D. Ward then arose and made a spiendid Union speech, which was upplanded to the echo by the gallant liberty-loving Norwegians. They are true as steel to the great doctrine of human freedom, and in their devotion to the Union.

Arrest of Clothing Merchants, attac

Pickpockets.

Considerable excitement was manifested about the city yesterday, over the arrest of two Randolph street cithing merchants, who are charged with being systematic and skillful pickpockets.
Their names are this Reubenstein and Louis Bennett, principals of the firm or Reubenstein & Bennett, cithiers and hatters, No.
211 Randolph street.

These men have been doing business in Chicago about two years, and the police anthorities assert that their store was merely a closk to more profitable and disreputable practices. In all places where crowds assemble, these men, sould be seen. At auction calve, at public meetings, etc., the police have invariably spotted them, and seldom has a pocket been rified in a publiciplace, but that the police could remember having seen one or both of these operators there, whose shrewdness has long baffied all attempts at detection.

Baturday night one of the detectives saw them at Bryan Hall, moving in the crowd there assembled. He junnedistely notified Superintendent Rehm, who being, it seems, naknown to Reubensteln and Bennett, "spotted" them. He distingtly saw Bennett take a wallet from a soldier pocket and fand it to Reubenstein. To have treested either of the the parties then, would have spelled the whole thing, as in such a crowd it would be on easy matter to get rife of the wallet. Quiettly watching his opportunity, the Superintendent shadowed Reubenstein to the door, and then gave him into the custody of en officer, who found the wallet concealed in his one of them found him emerging from Metropolitan Hall, having evidently despaired of flading a pocket worth picking in the Demoeratic meeting there salesmided.
